

“What we need in the United States is not division;
what we need in the United States is not hatred;
what we need in the United States is not violence
or lawlessness;
but love and wisdom, and compassion toward one another,
and a feeling of justice towards those who still suffer within our country, whether they be white or whether they be black.”

— Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Indianapolis, Indiana,
on the night of the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., April 4, 1968
